Training concept and approach

A basic assumption of the course and, in our view, central to the professional discipline of partnership brokering, is that those operating as partnership brokers need to embody a number of basic partnering principles in the way they undertake the role. These include being equitable and transparent as well as being willing to challenge assumptions and habitual behaviours.

How to best model such principles and interactions?

How can partnership brokers best model such principles in their interactions with partners and also encourage those they work with to adopt such principles themselves?

We have referenced a range of sources in evolving this course including: Paolo Freire, Malcolm Knowles, Otto Scharmer and Wilfred Bion. We also consider the value of concepts such as Complexity Theory for partnership brokers in 'holding space' for partners so that solutions can emerge when the time is right.

As with all our training courses, we build on the evidence and experience from our own on-going work in partnership brokering and from qualified partnership brokers operating in diverse contexts and with different models of partnership.

The course offers the opportunity for participants to build their skills through detailed planning, delivery and experience of practice sessions and to deepen their capacity to observe, listen, build on feedback and become more adept at responding to the question 'what is needed now?' – especially where this may mean challenging partners to bring about necessary change.

The course offers the opportunity for participants to:

- Explore a number of theoretical frameworks that underpin partnership brokering approaches
- Frame interventions in the context of an action learning model
- Consider some key issues in managing group processes
- Deepen skills as facilitator-trainers *
- Strengthen capacity to co-work effectively
- Work on themselves in terms of being 'alert, prepared and ready' to meet a range of partnership brokering challenges

 This course is a pre-requisite for anyone interested in becoming an authorised PBA Trainer, Associate or Mentor.*
