

A 4-day skills development course for those involved in brokering and managing multi-stakeholder partnerships

17 - 20 October 2017, Wellington, New Zealand

Nau mai Haere mai

Partnerships and collective impact initiatives are multiplying in New Zealand, yet these can be highly challenging to those involved and often fall short of expectations. Partnering is easier said than done. Those who are making partnerships happen are key to the partnering success. This program builds their knowledge, skills, tools and insights.

In October 2017 this unique and highly sought-after global program is being run for the second time in Wellington. It provides those working in partnerships with in-depth development on how to partner effectively. You'll leave with:

- Tools, techniques and skills for brokering partnerships that get results
- Enhanced confidence and competence as partnership practitioners
- A framework and knowledge for robust, efficient and innovative partnerships
- Knowing common principles, barriers and enablers of multi stakeholder collaborations
- Ways to overcome common partnership brokering challenges (both for those working internally and independently)
- Personal and professional insights into the roles, skills and competencies needed in building successful collaborations
- Membership of a global professional association of partnership brokers offering support, research, networks and further development opportunities.

The course can be used in two ways: one as individual or team professional development, and two, as real-time partnership building. When partners from different organisations attend together, they build a common language and framework while developing strategies for the design, management and review of their partnership.

On this intensive program you'll be part of a diverse group from business, not for profits, community, government, education and philanthropy. The group will be limited to 24 participants with two facilitators in order to maximise potential for exchange and personal attention to individuals.

"My awareness and understanding of partnership brokering has grown immensely... I feel more confident now and I'm looking forward to working with partners... the innovative approaches to problem solving will be invaluable." - Course graduate, Maori NGO, 2015

This course is for active partnership practitioners involved in the management and development of multi-stakeholder partnerships; no matter what title you have. You could be a relationships manager; a community entrepreneur, a leader of innovations, working in communications; in partnerships or delivering services through collaborations.

In our words a partnership 'broker' is an intermediary building effective and innovative collaboration between partners. Partnership brokers can be either internal – responsible for negotiating or managing partnerships on behalf of their organisation – or external – those offering independent partnership brokering and support services.

To be on the training you need to have:

- Opportunities for the practical application of partnership brokering skills.
- Educational attainment at higher education level in a related field and/or practical experience that combines analytical capabilities with an aptitude for working with diverse groups.

Participants who attend all sessions will be awarded a Partnership Brokers' Association certificate entitling them to become alumni of the Association and to apply for further training opportunities. Anyone who misses one or more sessions will be able to complete the course but will not be entitled to receive the PBA certificate nor be eligible for further training opportunities.
